In Loving Memory Of...

Kyla Morehead
1973-1998

The 1998 Redbird is dedicated to Kyla Morehead, EHS mathematics teacher who passed away of natural causes on February 8, 1998.

Kyla Marie Mahler was born October 11, 1973, to Paul and Kathy Mahler at Huron, SD. She graduated with the Class of 1991 from Ellendale High School. She then attended NDSU in Fargo and received her Bachelors Degree in Secondary Education.

She was married to Ken Morehead on June 17, 1995 in the Church of the Nazarene in Ellendale. She began work at the Ellendale School System in the Fall of 1996 where she taught high school math. Although she was a part-time teacher, she was often seen here full-time to go one-on-one with her students who may have needed help. Whether or not it was a problem with math or anything pertaining to life, she was there to help.

She enjoyed doing crossstitch and spending quiet time reading and gardening. She also enjoyed fixing up and decorating her home. She also taught private piano lessons out of her home to many local children.

Her memory will be loved by all and she will be carried in our hearts always.

Life is a Highway

"Life is a highway." That phrase has so many meanings. It could mean cruising down the highway in your car, surfing the internet highway, or the ups and downs, curves and bumps that we all face as we go through our lives.

Recently, because of our always improving technology, we are now able to surf on the internet highway that has been provided to us on nearly every computer in the school. We can also talk to people in other towns, states, and yes, even countries, through e-mail and we don't have to worry about long distance phone bills.

Many more of us are getting our driver's license, which means we can explore other places just by driving there.

Many students who are ready to graduate have to face the big hill in their highway of life and decide what they want to do after graduation day.

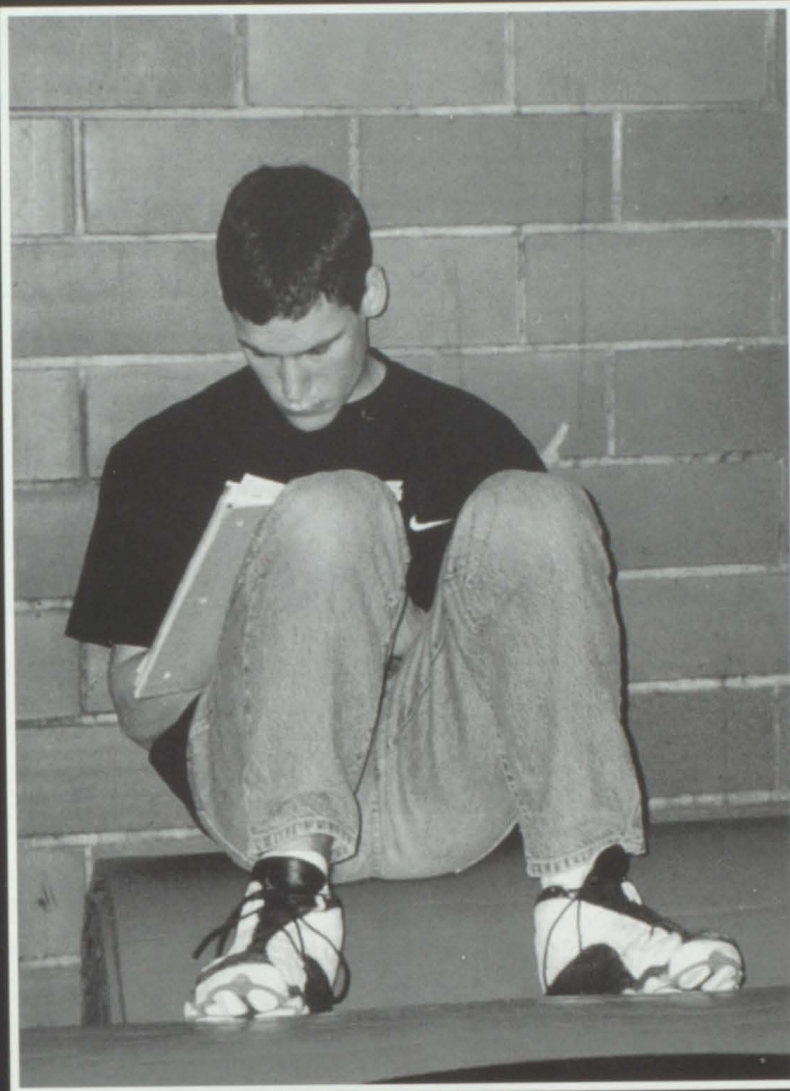

Sometime in our life we have to decide which "highway" we want to travel down and that doesn't come as an easy decision, so whatever road you're going to go down, think about what will be best for you.

Students are expanding their horizons by surfing the internet highway that has recently been accessible at EHS.

School may be one of the biggest roads that we have to travel down in our lives. With determination, we can move onto a bigger road after graduation.

All the roads that we have traveled...

...have led us to this moment. Soon we will part from the road we traveled together and go our own separate ways. It has taken years to get to this point and now it's up to us to pave the road ahead that will lead to the rest of our lives. No longer are decisions made for us, but our decisions are our own. We must decide for ourselves which bridge to cross and what bridge to burn. But as we look back we will remember all the joys we shared, all the times we stumbled, and all the friends we left behind.

Warning

"Warning, Junior Class Ahead!" Warning means caution or to slow down, but to our class warning means watch out for us, the Juniors.

Lane Harrison quotes, "The Junior class in my opinion are a group of their own." Amy Brandenburger said, "You never know what our class will do." Our class is always somewhere at some time. We may be in Aberdeen, cruising Ellendale's main strip, or just hanging out around Cenex.

We as Juniors have busy lives. As Amanda Maly says, "Our class is never out of stuff to do." At times we act very much like children but in a very mature manner. We as a class always have things to do even if it means getting into a little trouble, but hey who doesn't. We are a class of wonder, a class of excitement, and a class all of its own. Over the years the younger classmen have learned not to get in the way of the upperclassmen. "Don't mess with our class," says Jeff Glynn. The Juniors are out to have fun the last year of high school.

Warning: Take Life Seriously

Warning: we can all be a little weird sometimes, but this class surpasses us all. Little by little each of us changes over time; this sophomore class changes in the weirdest way. We will warn you that if you ever run into one of these weird people, don't worry; we are harmless. Warning: life is important!

Whether or not we choose to make that life easier for us in the long run is our choice. Many people don't take school seriously enough to even be in school at all. School is essential for life. To warn you, start now, don't wait, it only gets harder.

One Way

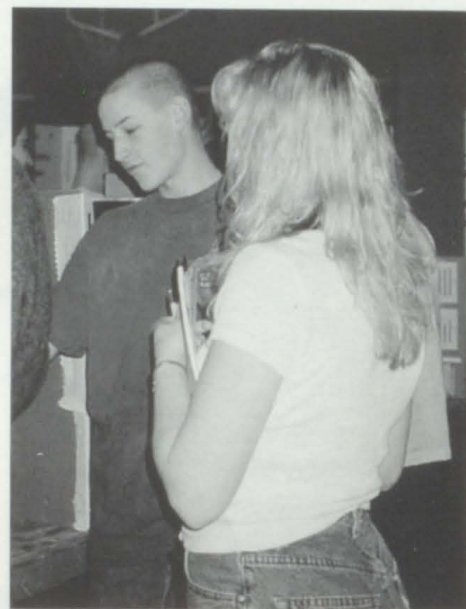

One way, the way to the ninth grade class. There is still a long and fun filled life of school ahead of them. More school days, homework, concerts, games, banquets, and proms. Also the summers of going to the baseball games and cheering for their team. Going to the classes and playing around until they get their homework.

When it comes to the things they like, most like sports, music, drama, and homework they work at it to get better. Their goals are similar to what they like.

But when graduation comes, and they're standing in line to get their diploma, they know that they can never turn back. They know that there is only one way now.

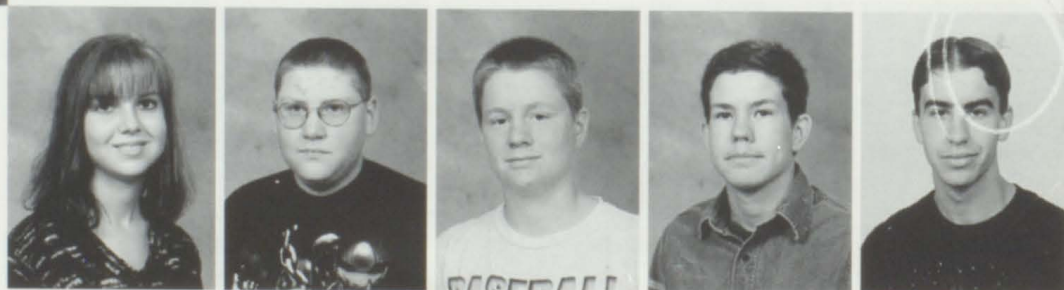

Greg Middlestead breaks out the make-up and gets all dolled up for opposite sex day.

Warning

Avoiding the Juniors and Seniors was how the eight graders spent most of their time in the hallways last year. Now the charts are starting to shift a little. The eighth graders finally have some of the upperclass men looking out for them. The eighth graders give a little chuckle as they walk down the hall and see the seventh graders looking out for them.

Through their goodie-goodie reputation you find a warning sign standing in the background. With their good grades also comes their wild sense to party and make trouble.

Erica Martin comments, "We have a lot more respect as eighth graders than as seventh graders and it's fun to see the seventh graders get pushed around like we did last year." Reed Merkel says, "It's fun to laugh at the seventh graders because they have to stand at the back of the lunch line."

The eighth grade class are pretty much all friends and they all know their limits.

On the go

With almost one hundred percent of the students in the class participating in school activities, the seventh grade class is certainly "on the go." As one of the smallest classes in enrollment, the students consider themselves as one unit working together to achieve their goals, and as the low class on the totem pole in their first year in the high school building it pays to stick together for protection.

Most of the seventh graders would agree that it feels good to be in the high school building and to have more freedom, but being last in line for lunch and everything else is pretty hard to get used to. They know that they will soon be out of this lane on the road of life and will be able to move on up the ladder next year.

Student Life

Life is a Highway

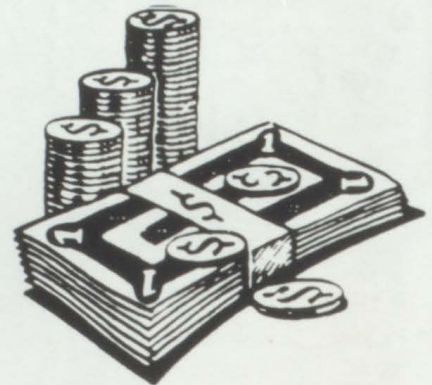

When you get your license, one important responsibility is to obey the law. In doing this, you must drive the speed limit, obey all traffic signs, drive safely and carefully, and be courteous. If these laws are not obeyed they may result in a ticket or warning. In the survey we conducted for 9-12th grade, 75% said no when asked if they have ever gotten a ticket, and 25% have received a ticket or warning. The majority of the tickets received were due to speeding. One of the most interesting responses was the fact that one student had six offenses but no drivers' license, but oddly enough, he had not gotten written up for driving without a license!

Every year a car or truck is designated to escort the homecoming court around the football field during half-time of the homecoming game. This year Cherron Kingzett's 1997 Ford F150 pickup was chosen for the honor.

Annie Harvey pumps gas at Cenex Self-Serve. Gas is one of the major expenses of driving.

Personalized license plates are one advantage of driving and owning your own car. They can be used to show off one's personality as shown on Ryan Brokaw's pickup.

Even though driving is a fun and exciting adventure, every driver must deal with expenses. One major expense of driving is gas. On average, the students polled spend $30 a month fueling their vehicles. Other costs of driving include insurance and buying your own car. Twelve percent of EHS students polled already own their own vehicle while 78% still drive one owned by their parents. With the expense of driving constantly rising, it is no wonder that teenagers are always complaining about not having enough money.

Top Five Favorite Vehicles

1. Ford
2. Mustang
3. Pickup
4. Dodge Ram
5. Chevy Truck

Without a parking lot at EHS, parking space is limited. Every morning and after lunch, there is a mad scramble to find the best parking space so as not to be the one to park blocks away. First come, first serve is the rule as shown in the above picture. Teachers often get the best parking spaces because they are the first to arrive. The below picture shows students parking all the way down 4th avenue.

An important part of everyone's life is getting a driver's license. On the road to getting a driver's license, many people take driver's education. This course is offered every summer to students fourteen years of age or older. It is fun because students get to learn all the rules of the road and get behind-the-wheel experience. When the course is completed, the students can get their permit and after three months, their license by passing a written and driving test. The majority of people surveyed got their license at age fourteen or fifteen.

Josh Wald, a former driver's ed student, says, "I learned a lot in driver's ed like tips and procedures that I will use for the rest of my life."

All in all, driver's ed is an important step on the road to your driving future.

Spirit + Pride = Homecoming

A time for fun, a time for pride, a time to win. The spirit at EHS cannot get more exciting than when it comes to homecoming week.

Students show their spirit and fun when they dress in the most extreme costumes during dress up days. Homecoming week began with Nerd Day. It was an interesting day with Amanda Kingzett and Ross Arthur winning the award for best dressed nerds of the day.

Homecoming King and Queen Grant Petersen and Alicia Glynn were crowned during coronation ceremonies on Tuesday. Highlights of the ceremonies included the mock coronation skit by the Student Council and the skit by the teachers.

Pajama Day began with a sock hop and breakfast in the gym sponsored by the Student Council. Winners for best dressed were Will Kronberg, Leah Lambert, and Helen Biggs.

Many people were very well dressed for Opposite Sex Day. The winners for the day were Alicia Ulmer, Ryan Ulmer, Cameron Brauer, and Pam Wall.

Homecoming Week was topped off Friday with Red and Black Day. Spirits were soaring following the 40-6 Cardinal victory over the Badgers. The victory was celebrated with the homecoming dance in the high school gym following the game.

EHS students rally round the flaming E before the homecoming game to fire up the football team and fans.

Leah Lambert's beauty mask, Will Kronberg's sleeping cap, and Helen Bigg's bunny helped them win best-dressed honors on pajama day.

Working Students Get A Head Start

Work: employment at a job or something; purposeful activity; labor; toil.

For most high school students, the above definition is applied only to their academic activity in the classroom, but for approximately one-third of the students, it is applied to part-time jobs held during after school hours and weekends.

Thirteen seniors held part-time employment as a requirement of the Diversified Occupations class. To earn high school credit for the class, the students needed to work 360 hours during the school year and attend an hour of class daily.

JET students gain valuable experience in the area of teaching while earning credit for their work.

The rest of the student work force at EHS is employed in a variety of jobs, anything from working at the local eateries, delivering papers, mowing lawns, babysitting, working at the nursing home, or working at the grocery store. Some of the students stash their cash in saving accounts for college while others use it for extra spending money.

40 Years Have Gone Speeding By

40 years have come and gone since Mr. Johnson started teaching. He has decided it is time to retire. Mr. Johnson has spent 28 of the last 40 years in Ellendale teaching Math, Health, and P.E. Here he spent countless hours patiently helping his students. Mr. Johnson was always ready and willing to do whatever it took to help his students get a better understanding of math. He encouraged students to call anytime they had a question. Mr. Johnson was loved and respected by all and will be greatly missed.

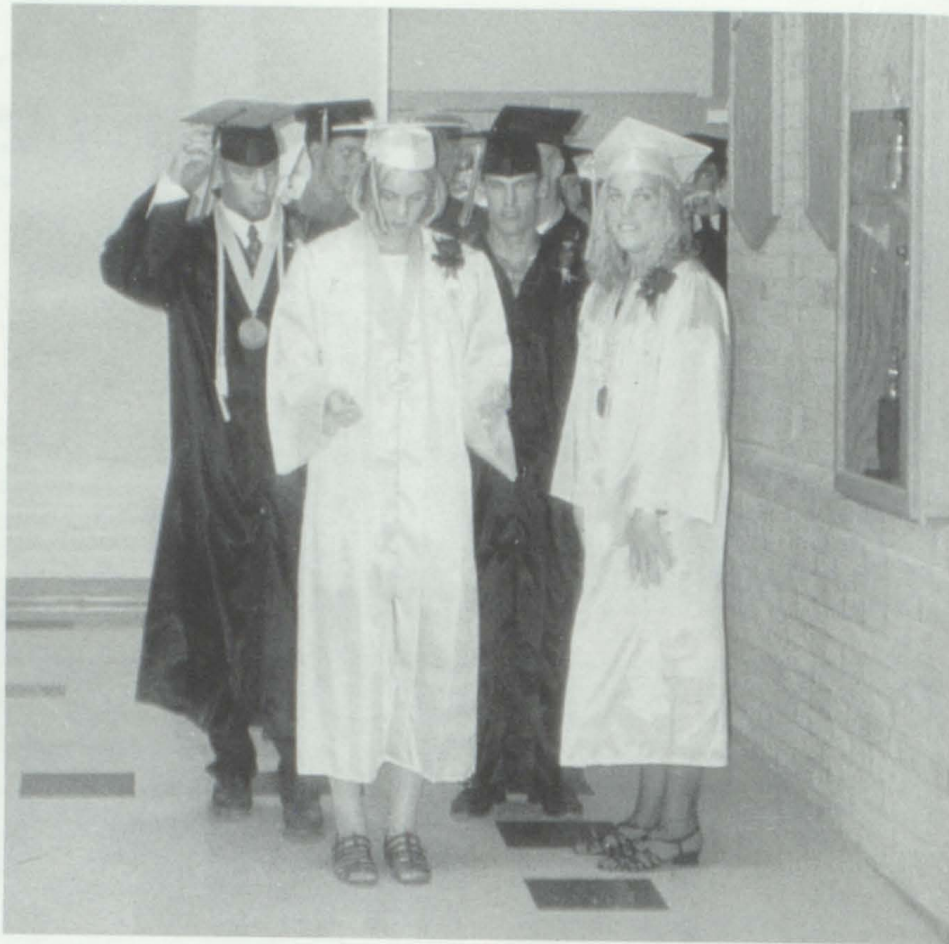

Mr. Johnson was made an honorary student of the month for May's trait of "endurance." It was well earned.

Driving Towards Excellence

The awards ceremony for academic success was held the last week of school with awards given for excellence in math, science, and music, along with activity pins and scholarships. Also included in this program is the National Honor Society induction ceremony. The closing feature of the ceremony is the senior slide show which is done by the juniors. This year's show was produced by Carla Glynn and Amanda Maly.

Mr. Fiechtner hands out awards to the musicians who earned a star rating at regional competition.

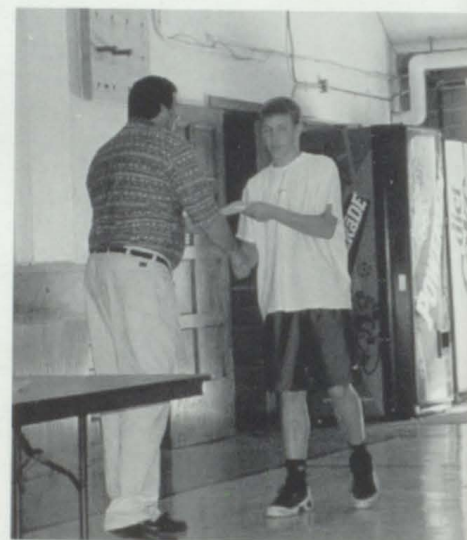

Dorothy Long, a member of the Dollars for Scholars committee, awards scholarships to this year's recipients. All of this year's honor students received a scholarship from this group.

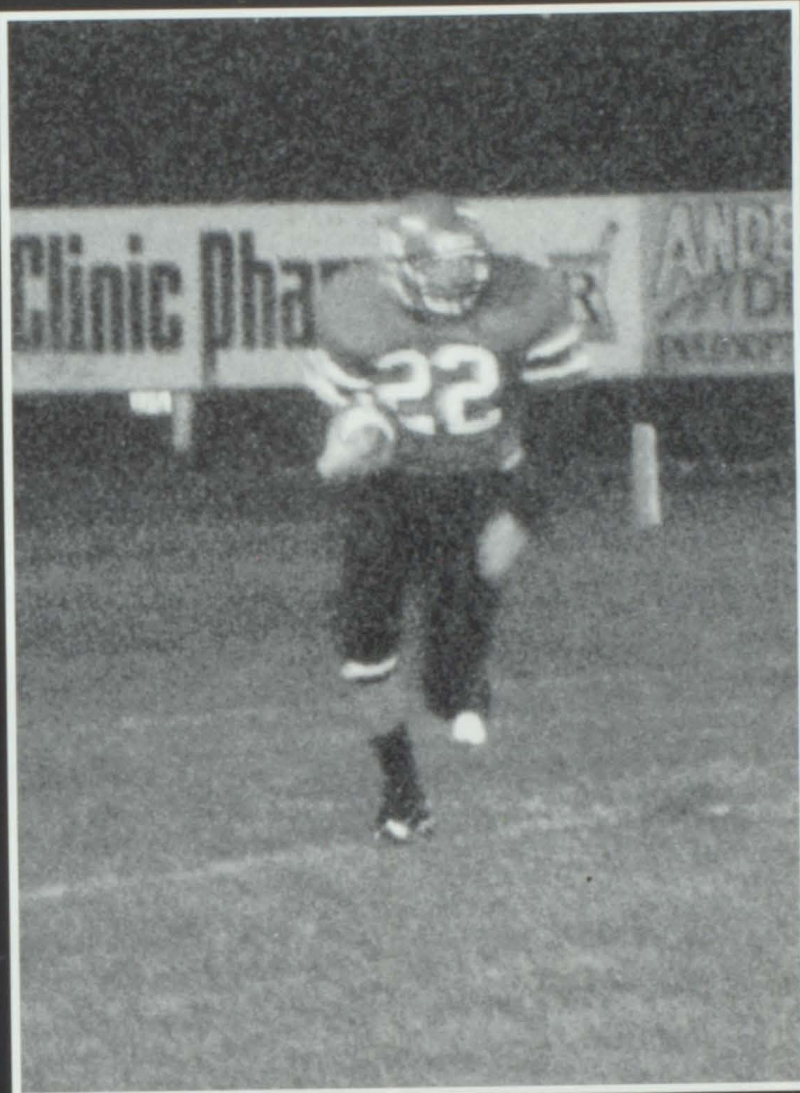

Mr. Graf hands out medals and cords to the honor students to be worn at graduation.

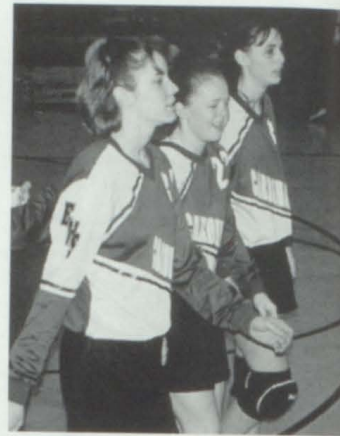

Heidi Trautman accepts the award for first place from Ellendale at the NSU math Contest from Mr. Johnson. This is the second year Heidi has earned this title.

Football Team Drives to the Top

Despite having a successful season which earned them a trip to the playoffs, the football team met with a disappointing loss to Scranton in the first round of the playoffs to cut the extended season short. The long road trip and illness of senior running back Chris Mahler in that game was too much for the team to overcome.

The team earned the trip to the playoffs by attaining a 6-3 season record. Highlights of the season were the 40-6 homecoming victory over the Ashley-Wishek Badgers and the close loss, 12-14, to the Edgeley-Kulm Rangers who were highly rated in the region.

The team will lose ten seniors, Adam Sand, Chris Mahler, Ross Arthur, Mike Maroney, Ryan Ketterling, Chris Hagen, Ryan Hafey, Grant Petersen, Zeb Bohl, to graduation. Lars Wundram, foreign exchange student from Germany, will also be missing from the team.

Girls Capture District Crown

For the first time since re-districting to District 9, the girls' basketball team captured the championship trophy by defeating a tenacious Gackle-Streeter team.

In regional action, the Lady Cards carried championship momentum into first round action and defeated Shilo-Christian. They were defeated by Linton in the semi-final action dashing any hopes of going to state.

The three seniors, Alicia Glynn, Sarah Maier, and Andrea Lonski, showed excellent leadership through the season. Alicia Glynn and Sarah Maier earned the honor of making All District Team which is voted on by the coaches in the district.

Junior transfer, Kari Hanson, from Bowman, ND added strength to the Cardinal defense. Other juniors returning next year are Barb LaMont and Cherron Kingzett.

All in all, the Cardinals had a rewarding season with a record of 20-5.

Driving for the Points

As said in the past, the Thunder wrestling team is young, but that's beginning to be not so true anymore. This year the team consisted of every grade but seniors. But this will fall untrue next year.

Brent Nell coached a very energetic team, but all that hard work paid off when the Edgeley-Ellendale Thunder wrestling team set off to Wishek for a tournament. With all the members of the team wrestling their hardest, they were able to stand in glory as they took second place behind Wishek. With such high hopes of sending many wrestlers to state, only two very talented wrestlers got to attend.

Tyler Middlestead, a junior, went in the 140lb weight class from Ellendale and Pat Bollinger, a junior, was able to make it for the HWT division from Edgeley.

With next year being the last year for some, the wrestlers hope to wrestle with eager and aggressive attitudes to be able to make it up to state.

With only four seniors graduating this year, the Cardinal volleyball team has potential for next year. Seniors Alicia Glynn, Sarah Maier, Becky Glynn, and Pam Wall were an integral part of the varsity squad this year, but a second-place win by the Junior Varsity in the Lamoure Round-Robin Tournament is a good sign of the upcoming talent for the team.

Besides the four seniors, the rest of the varsity squad was composed of seven juniors. Junior Varsity was composed of five juniors, one sophomore, and eight freshmen. The teams were coached by Jill Tatum and Jenn Morgan.

The Road to Victory

The boys' basketball season started out with a bang with two amazing wins over Enderlin and Sargent Central. The season continued to improve with a 13-6 record at district time. Ellendale's first matchup at the District 9 tournament was with the Kulm-Golphers. EHS defeated them 63-54 moving them into the second round where they beat out Gackle-Streeter 58-48. At the District Championship, Ellendale met up with year long rivals, (the Edgeley Rangers) but came up 4 points short of the District title. Ellendale went on to Regionals but lost to the Region Champs Shilo Christian Skyhawks. During the season, annual competition helped keep the basketball spirit alive. At the Holiday Tournaments, Ellendale took the first place title by beating out Frederick-Hecla 55-49, Warner 55-54, and losing to Faulkton 46-53. Despite the loss, Ellendale still came out on top with the best record of 2-1.

Senior Ryan Brokaw commented, "The year was fun except that we lost to Edgeley twice and lost the cowbell." The loss of this year's cowbell game was disappointing because the game was close through the first half but then Oakes stepped it up in the second half to beat the Cards 70-50.

Despite some disappointing losses, the Cards remain hopeful for next year. Junior Aaron Thielges said, "I thought we had a good season. I think we will have a pretty good chance of going to state next year."

Through it all, the boy's basketball team had a successful and exciting season and are looking forward to more to come.

Dancing in the Streets

The Ellendale Cardettes, in a way, had an easy year. With only one rookie to train in the girls got started a little earlier than usual.

The girls went for a totally new look this year with a little bit of attitude and some sportiness.

This year at state the categories were high kick, dance/funk, and novelty. The girls wanted to come up with a novelty routine that would totally blow the audience's mind away. Finally they decided with a football/cheerleading look and had many spectators going "wow." The girls were happy to return to Ellendale with two, third place trophies.

After state, the girls started to get prepared for their spring program. Once again they had their traditional guy-girl routine, camp routine, and the little girl routines.

One highlight of the season is when Kristen Merkel got accepted to dance for the NDSU dance team in Fargo.

With only eight girls on the team and with the four seniors leaving this year, the captains for next year will have a lot of work to do. Good luck to the graduating seniors, we wish you the best.

On the Right Track

The Ellendale track team began their season on schedule. With good weather, everyone was able to practice "their" events. The season started off strong with good possibilities of sending many of the athletes to state.

Kip Mahler was one of the 800 run favorites along with the two mile relay team. Alicia Glynn rebroke her 100 and 300 hurdle records along with setting a new 400 dash record. Heather Wagle gave her all as she rebroke her discus record.

Mr. Hack had a dream this year that his girls' track team would come out of the regional with a three-peat in their hands, and the boys within the top three in the region.

With the track team speeding to new records we entered Regionals with focused minds and aggressive attitudes. With only Alicia Glynn having already qualified for state, we all had our fingers crossed. With an upsetting loss for the girls who took 7th and the boys who took 6th, Mr. Hack was pleased to have Mike Maroney with shot put, Alicia Glynn with hurdles and 400 dash, and Kip Mahler with the 800 run and the two mile relay team consisting of Tyler Middlestead, Jeff Ulmer, Lukas Tvedt, and Kip Mahler taking their events to state.

The junior high team had a successful year. Once again Mr. Sykora was the coach and was proud to have some of his team run with varsity. Looking down the road, Ellendale has very talented runners coming up and hope for many victories in the future.

Driving Towards Excellence

The EHS golf team had a good season according to coach, Dan Wold. This was the first year that EHS had a full girls' golf team that participated in six golf meets and placed first in three of the six. The boys' team placed second in the conference meet in Lisbon.

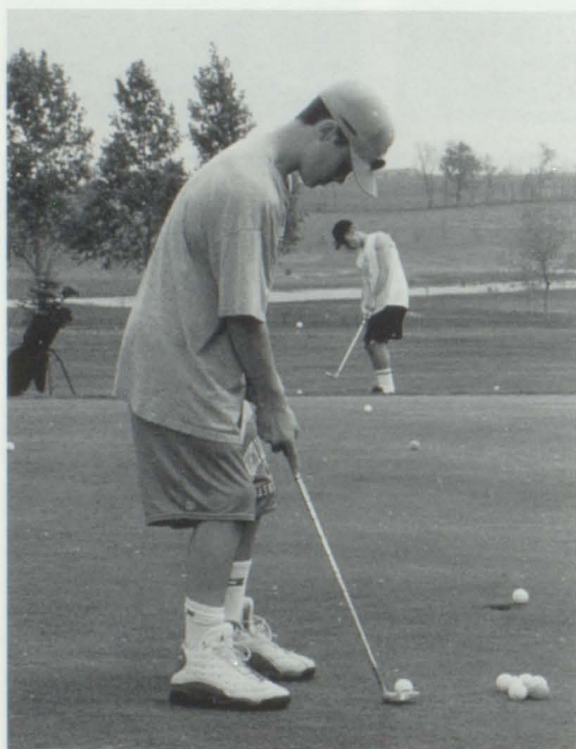

A repeat competitor, Jeff Glynn, qualified for state in Langdon and Park River for a second year. Jeff qualified by shooting a score of 78 in 18 holes at Napoleon. In state competition, Jeff competed well but did not place.

Golf awards voted on by the teams included Jeff Glynn - Most Valuable Player; Kyle Glynn - Most Improved Player for the boys' team and Amy Maly - Most Valuable Player; Erica Young - Most Improved Player for the girls' team.

The golf team loses two valuable seniors, Amy Maly and Chris Hagen, as well as their seven-year coach, Dan Wold. He has brought them a long way and will be missed very much.

Jeff Glynn said, "We will miss Mr. Wold very much, but we will attempt to go on and keep winning."

Tune Up the Pipes

Mr. Fiechtner, a lover of music, has been a music teacher for 15 years. In his first year at EHS, the students enjoyed his talent and ability to motivate them to excel.

He became interested in music at a young age not only by his family but also by his inspiration to learn more about music. He graduated from high school in Monango and from Northern State University in Aberdeen with a major in music.

In Mr. Fiechtner's free time, he likes to spend time with a chorus group called ALIVE. There are approximately 35 members in the group which usually sings Christian Gospel music. The group has travelled all over to perform concerts and has recorded three tapes for sale.

On the Road to D.C.

Every year juniors and seniors are given the opportunity to take a trip to Washington. This year thirteen juniors worked hard to raise money for the six day trip. After all our hard work, the payback began on March 22. Throughout our week-long stay we attended seminars to learn how our government works and met with our state congressmen on Capital Hill to discuss issues from back home. We also toured Washington and learned about many of the monuments there. The trip also exposed us to a vast array of people and cultures different from ours as students from other states and countries participated in the program.

Junior High Presents "The Castaways"

For the first time in anyone's memory, the Junior High Music Classes, under the direction of Mr. Wayne Fiechtner presented a musical with full sets and costuming and musical score in lieu of a spring concert.

The musical entitled "The Castaways" was no small undertaking for the students as it emphasized the modern-day plight of the homeless through flashback of a group of orphans on the streets of New York during the Depression.

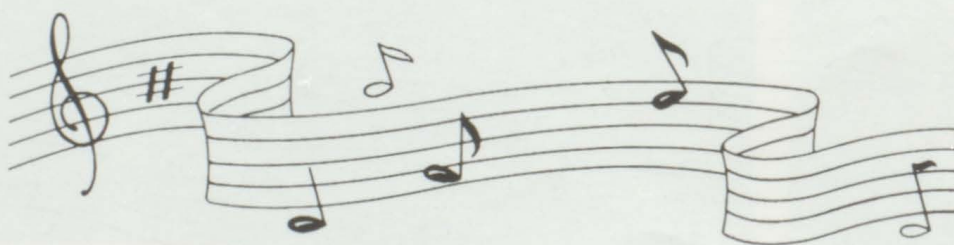

The play involved major scenery changes, all of which were designed and constructed by the students. The junior high students are eagerly looking forward to next year's production.

Where Shakespeare's Ladies Meet!

Long practices, lots of make-up, hard feelings, but with fun is what goes into a great play production. With only six girls to act with, Mr. Masset picked out a play that he thought would challenge them to perform with their full potential. The scene was set back in Juliet's garden in Verona, where one by one, the ladies from Shakespeare's plays come to Juliet side to give her lessons and the low down on love.

The girls went to perform at Regionals in Gackle and ended up with runner-up. After regionals, the girls started to prepare for the 2nd annual dinner theater. Here, people buy tickets in advance and come for a night of food and entertainment. With many girls returning next fall, we hope to have another fun and successful year of acting.

Driving for Deadlines

Dropping from a class of 24 to a class of 9 was a big change and challenge for the '97-'98 yearbook staff. Instead of two separate classes on alternate days, this year's staff met all together two days a week.

The year began with classes on how to create a yearbook and what it takes to get good pictures and theme related stories. Once second semester rolled around, the staff was ready to begin work on the yearbook. To make things easier, this year is the first year the yearbook was put together on the computer. No longer do layouts and instructions have to be written out by hand, now everything is sent to a plant on computer disk.

Along with new technology, this year's yearbook staff had 3 new members, sophomores Amanda Waddington, Derek Peldo and Mike Vetsch. Derek Peldo says, "The funnest part is putting the layouts on the computers." Juniors Sarah Parsons and Joy Furman have been on the annual staff for two years while Juniors Wendy Mueller and Jennifer Weinmeyer have been part of the yearbook staff for three years. Senior Annie Harvey who rejoined the yearbook staff at second semester this year is in her 4th year.

Overcoming all odds, the 97-98 yearbook staff has pulled it all together to produce the 1998 yearbook.

Speeding To Help

Every year CASPER sponsors events and programs designed to help students deal with problems they face everyday. But only the CASPER member could make it fun. This year was no exception. In the fall CASPER put on an illustration to show the effects of substance abuse. Every hour, all day, the "grim reaper" took someone out of class. This represented the amount of teens killed by substance abuse. Students learned that it could happen to anyone and just like that, one of their friends could be gone.

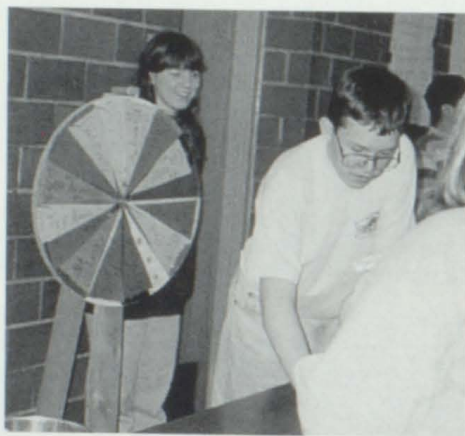

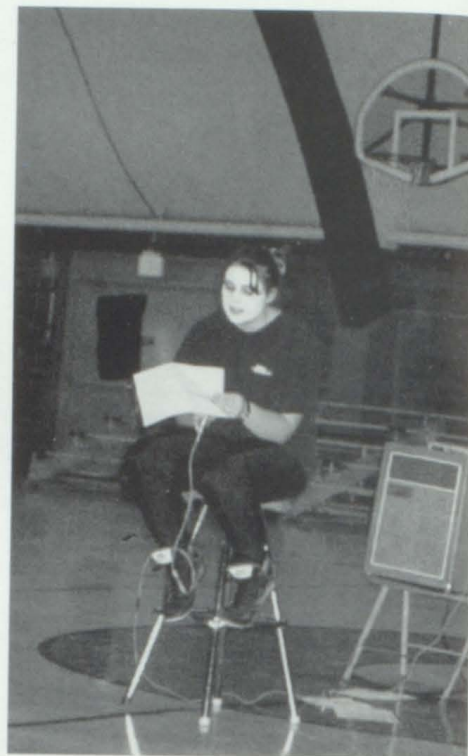

At the end of the day, an assembly was held explaining the day's exercise. This illustration was an educational and enlightening experience.

CASPER also sponsors the CASPER carnival every spring. The carnival gives classes a chance to earn much needed funds with such games as pillow fight and fish pond. One game that drew a large crowd was the nerf throw. Student had the chance to throw a nerf ball dipped in water, chocolate, etc. at their favorite or least favorite teacher. This was the first year this game was played and if the teachers have anything to say about it, the last.

The Grim reaper visited Amber Brokaw during CASPER'S day long illustration of substance abuse.

Class of 1998

By Sarah Maier

As we began our journey sometime back,
 It's amazing we are all still intact.
 Of the final 34, 13 of us together since the start.
 It's hard to believe it's our turn to part.
 We have learned to accept each other for who we are.
 We're all individuals, each one of us a star.
 Luke was always impressing us with his strange talents.
 While throwing discus, Heather had no sense of balance.
 David E. could always be heard making strange sounds, and Mike could be heard for miles around.
 Christy learned to speak her mind,
 and Lars, the German, was one of a kind.
 Laurie F. was always so quiet,
 and Crystal was always part of a riot.
 Hafey was known for wrecking his cars.
 Anna and Liebe were the cultured ones by far!
 The stunt man of the class had to be Chris,
 Hagen that is, for Mahler was known for his bliss.
 David Haase always had such a big smile,
 Annie Harvey left us, but only for a little while.
 Zeb and Sam were always devising a plan,
 and Ross thought that he was the man!
 It seemed I always had something to worry,
 but Alicia, she was never in any kind of hurry.
 Brokaw was so proud of his truck,
 and Adam was always down on his luck.
 Grant and his cattle, we've heard about them all.
 Ryan and the Bible, he's taken his call.
 Roxann seemed to be in her own little world,
 and Becky's hair always so beautifully curled.
 Heidi would lend that helping hand.
 Kristen and school lunch, she could not stand.
 Annie's hot tub came in handy,
 and Amy's advice was so dandy.
 Barbie always found something funny,
 and Lori B. was always off with her honey.
 The simple things in life, Pam did enjoy,
 and Lindsey could be amazed by any toy.
 We are the class of 1998,
 and are we ever so GREAT!!
